

Mid-Round Order Form

Over 40% of herds realize the benefits of this valuable service

The mid-round classification service is an opportunity for dairy producers to reduce the interval between classification visits from 8 to 4 months. A smaller interval between visits has many advantages, including smaller first lactation groups to show the classifier each visit (particularly for larger herds) and more current herd measurements for mating decisions.

LOGICAL CHOICE FOR MANY DAIRY PRODUCERS

With over 40% of herds choosing the mid-round option, many different types of operators have discovered a valid reason to consider the mid-round service.

- Large herds cite convenience and efficiency as the main factors for having their herds classified more often.
- Members interested in livestock value have sought the opportunity to have animals evaluated more often for a greater chance to have animals viewed a their best.
- Producers keen on herd improvement have realized more frequent classification translates to more timely genetic mating service - an added value providing them with ample reason to jump-on-board.
